The Public Ledger (Philadelphia), under the title of "The Immortality of Truth and Jusas that of Albert the Good. The selfish in this country, and its general toleration by tice," shows that our country is on the eve of a grand career, and that her prestige abroad has been immensely exalted by recent events-adding that

"The sacrifice we, as a nation, made in 1861, in resisting the further extension of the Slave Labor system, and then, when necessary, overthrowing Slavery itself, and the kindness manifested to former Rebels, have given us power and credit already in the eyes of the world, and strength such as we had never conceived. Everything American is now going up in the European market. And this is only just beginning. All history is before it. While Secession is dead, our Government securities are daily rising, and only our enemies in European cape are confounded."

—All this is very the second of the Slaver Slave

-All this is very true, and only the more impressive from the fact that The Ledger, if we mistake not, rather discouraged, in 1860-61, resistance to the Extension of the Slave Labor system, and would have had us adopt the Crit- biana, Erie, Wood, and other Union strong tenden Compromise.
